

Bert Jan Reezigt, DVM, Swedish specialist in diseases of dogs and cats
Göteborgs Djursjukhus Evidensia, Gothenburg, Sweden

I graduated from Utrecht University in 1997 and moved from Holland to live and work in Sweden. From 1998-2021 I was employed at several small animal specialty hospitals in Helsingborg, Gothenburg and abroad. In veterinary medicine my main interests are ECC, internal medicine and ultrasound. I have had the opportunity to work intensively within the field of ECC, having developed an emergency and critical care department and been head of ICU during a decade. From 2006-2016 I was a general board member for the European Veterinary Emergency and Critical Care Society and worked actively to promote ECC in Europe. Since 2021 I am employed at IVC Evidensia and work clinically at "Göteborgs Djursjukhus Evidensia" and centrally with continuing education. I am a Swedish board certified specialist in diseases of dogs and cats. I love teaching and during many years I frequently lectured in the Scandinavian countries, mainly on small animal internal medicine and ECC topics. I have also organized numerous national and international courses and congresses. I am happy to be the chair for the local organizing committee creating the international EVECC Congress 2024 to be held in the town of Gothenburg. I live with my wife and 4 kids in Alingsås and when free from work I only want to do one thing: going out fishing. I wish you all a warm welcome to Gothenburg next spring!
