

Dave Beeston

Point-of-care ultrasound in the Pulmonary Hypertension patient

This lecture aims to cover the techniques for assessment of moderate-to-severe pulmonary hypertension in the emergency patient. We will cover basic pathophysiology of pulmonary hypertension, ultrasonographic techniques to help identify and classify pulmonary hypertension, and will finish by applying these techniques to a real PH emergency case.