

Vicente Herrería Bustillo

Ldo.Vet., MSc, Dip.ACVECC, Dip.ECVECC

Vicente graduated in veterinary medicine in 2006. In 2009 he did a rotating internship at ARS Veterinaria-UAB in Barcelona. After working a few years in emergency clinics in Spain and the UK, in 2013 he did an emergency and critical care internship at Auburn University, USA. In 2017 he completed a 3-year residency program in emergency and critical care at the Royal Veterinary College, London. In 2017 received his diploma from the American College of Veterinary Emergency and Critical Care and in 2018 obtained the diplomate status from the European College of the same specialty. Since 2018 he works as head of ICU at the Universidad Católica de Valencia in Spain.

His research interest include respiratory diseases, POCUS, CPR, toxicology and coagulation.